

Community Education

Upcoming Project Information Sessions & Webinar

As part of our on-going efforts to keep stakeholders informed of the latest project happenings, National Grid will be hosting community information sessions and a webinar in December.

These community information sessions are held in an open house style and offer community members access to various members of our project team for open dialogue on the project.

Project construction is slated to begin in January and these events provide a good opportunity to learn more about the project components, schedule and impacts.
